When you choose a product to search and add to the comparison table, it includes both mapped specification products and products without mapped specifications.

(For products without mapped specifications, the specification field will be blank and display a (-) line.)

Case 2: Compare items in the table that are not similar products (compare same specifications).

In this scenario, if you have already added one set of specification details and then add products with different specifications to compare, a notification message will display: "Kindly compare items with similar products."

(For example, if you have already added a mobile specification and then try to add a laptop specification, it will not be allowed, and a message will be shown.)
